BAD AUTO SPILL.

Family of Wm. Russell Thrown from Machine While Returning to Bourbon

Wm. Russell and wife and two daughters, and their son Luman, wife and baby of Bourbon, went to Elkhart via auto last Sunday to visit a son of the former, John. On the return home they had safely arrived at the corner where the turn south is made toward Bourbon, the first road east and west, south of the B. & O. railway north of that place. As they arrived there a large touring car passed within a few feet of the corner where Mr. Russell was to turn. He was not going exceedingly fast, he says, but made up his mind he could not make the turn and ran his auto into the ditch, throwing almost all of the family out. The ladies were sitting in the rear seat when the accident occurred. Mrs. Luman Russell was thrown across the ditch and against the fence and severely stunned. The baby was in her lap and the little one was dropped as she was thrown and alighted in the lap of the elder Mr. Russell, immediately under the steering wheel and was not hurt. Mrs. Wm. Russell was thrown into the ditch, alighting prone in the mud and water. The two little daughters of hers were thrown quite a distance and Luman went over the front in a hurry. Fortunately no one was seriously hurt. The ladies were brought to town by Ben Mitterling in his big overland car, after he had taken the base ball team home from Bremen, where he was telephoned after the accident occurred. Mr. Russell and son patched up the broken wheel, the sprung axle and the battered back of the front seat and brought the machine home under its own power.

WRITERS OF WORK IN TRAINING

PLYMOUTH BOY GIVES ARTICLE WHILE ATTENDING VALPARAISO UNIVERSITY.

Lloyd Greiner Tells of Manual Training Work in Schools and Its History—Delivered Before Arts and Crafts Club

The following article was presented by Lloyd E. Greiner of this city, before the Arts and Crafts Club, Valparaiso University and published in the Valparaiso University Herald, April 22, 1910.

Lloyd will graduate from the Manual Training Department Valparaiso University in August 1910.

Pioneers of Manual Training

Each subject of study now found in our schools has been introduced because of its evident necessity to the life work of the people. So, also, with the subject of Manual Training. Through the study of this subject, men and women have seen its necessity to the growth and welfare of mankind. They saw the need of a study of industrial work to fit the people for useful lives and to become thereby good citizens. These far-seeing men and women have thus become "Pioneers of Manual Training."

Manual Training is a comparatively new subject, having received its first official recognition as a school subject, in Europe about 1858. It is to Ugo Cynaeus (Signe-us) of Finland that is due the recognition as the first noted "Pioneer of Manual Training."

Cynaeus was a native of Finland, a minister and teacher at Wiborg, and for some time the spiritual director of a colony at Sitka, Alaska. In 1861 he was appointed chief inspector of the Finnish public schools, which he thoroughly organized. He organized a plan of Manual Training work for the primary schools of his country and in 1886 he made instruction in some branch of Manual, or Sloyd work compulsory in the training colleges for male teachers, and in all primary schools for boys in the country districts.

We owe much to Sweden for the development of Manual Training, and especially Sloyd work. They saw a need for the study and in 1874 under the direction of Otto Solomon, the Sloyd Sammarium of Naas (Nase) was established through the influence of Otto Solomon's school not only all Sweden was brought under the banner of Manual Training, but it had an influence upon the thought and practice of other countries.

Its to Victor Della Vos, director of the Imperial Technical School for Government Engineers at St. Petersburg that we owe the present method of teaching Manual Training. This method is known as the Russian Method, and was brought before the world in 1868. Della Vos conceived the plan of first teaching the elements of a certain kind of tool work systematically by means of models and drawings and practice exercises before any attempt should be made at the execution of trade-work. His motto was, "Instruction before construction."

Dr. Waldemar Gotz founded a Manual Training Seminary at Leipzig, which has become the center of the movement and the main institution for the work in Germany.

The growth of Manual Training in the United States has been, and is rapid. In 1880, through the efforts of Dr. Calvin A. Woodward, a school of Manual Training was opened in connection with the Washington University of St. Louis. This school attracted wide attention, and its success led to the speedy organization of similar schools in other large cities of the United States.

Through the efforts and financial support of Mrs. Quincy A. Shaw, of Boston a school for experimental classes in carpentry was founded. These classes were conducted by Gustaf Larsson at the Dwight School, but were later taken under the care of Boston.

Mr. Larsson, our greatest pioneer of Manual Training in America, was born in Sweden, receiving his education in his native country. After deciding to engage in the teachers' profession, he entered the Naas Sloyd Seminary in 1881 and took training for this special field of work, under the direction of Herr Otto Solomon.

From there he went to the Northwestern part of Sweden and established four Sloyd schools, training both teachers and children—the teachers eventually taking charge of their respective schools.

In 1888 Mr. Larsson came to Boston with the purpose of interesting American educators in the Swedish system of Manual Training. Although the Russian system had already been introduced, Mr. Larsson was confident that the Swedish sloyd system would meet

DECORATION DAY PROGRAM IN PLYMOUTH

MILES H. TIBBITTS POST OF G. A. R. COMPLETE ARRANGEMENTS FOR MAY 30TH.

Program of Exercises Will be Held at the United Brethren Church This Year.

Miles H. Tibbitts Post G. A. R. extends greeting to the citizens of Plymouth and vicinity and most cordially invites them and all honorably discharged soldiers and sailors of the war of the rebellion and Spanish American war, the Ladies Relief Corps and all other patriotic, civic and fraternal societies to unite with them in appropriately observing Memorial and Decoration day, Monday, May 30, 1910.

The thirtieth day of May was set apart as decoration day by the Grand Army of the Republic in the year 1868. Its purpose was to perpetuate the memory of those who freely shed their blood and sacrificed their lives for the purification and perpetuation of the Republic established by our forefathers.

We ask therefore, in the name of our Country and in the name of those who died in its defense, that this day be not turned into a day of games and races and other mercenary pursuits, but the thoughtful and patriotic, by the thoughtless and avaricious, but that all will join with us in consecrating the day as sacred to the memory of those whose graves we shall garland with flowers on this solemn funeral occasion.

Program of Exercises.

The column, consisting of the G. A. R. and Ex. Soldiers and sailors of the war of the Rebellion of the Spanish American War, Ladies Relief Corps and Co. I. Indiana National Guard led by the Culver Band will form at 1:30 p. m. on Michigan street in front of the G. A. R. hall the right resting on Laporte street and under the direction of the officer of the day will march south on Michigan street to the United Brethren church where the following program of exercises will be observed, Dr. E. M. Burkett, Post Commander presiding.

Song by the School children, Miss McGuire director.

Invocation by Rev. Yager.

Reading of President Lincoln's Address on the battlefield of Gettysburg by Mr. S. E. Boys.

Song by the School children. Memorial Address by Rev. Wareing. Flag salute and song by school children. Song, America by Audience standing. Benediction.

The column will then reform on Michigan street in the following order (the G. A. R. and ex soldiers and sailors and Ladies Relief Corps resting on Charles street, representing the Post; then comes I. N. G. and Spanish American Soldiers representing the Present and third the school children representing the future and in this order led by the band, will march to Oak Hill cemetery, where after the ritual service by the G. A. R. and song by school children, the graves of all soldiers and sailors will be decorated with flowers.

At the usual signal the column will reassemble and a salute to the dead will be fired by Co. I. N. G. and break ranks in front of G. A. R. hall on Michigan street.

His seemingly prophetic vision proved true. Mrs. Quincy A. Shaw appreciated the educational value of this system and of Mr. Larsson's work, invited him to become the principal of a training school for teachers in Boston.

Mr. Larsson's work in America has not been confined to the supervision of the Sloyd Training School as he has traveled widely in this country, giving lectures before great promoters of Manual Training.

The Sloyd Training School and many sloyd schools emanating from it will ever stand as monuments of his pedagogical insight, untiring efforts, and splendid supervision.

Thus we have traced the successes of the "Pioneers of Manual Training." They were men and women of determination and will to succeed in a work which they saw would benefit humanity. They had their trials and discouragements but they have erected to themselves a great monument in the form of the subject of Manual Training.

SUES DOCTOR FOR DAMAGES AMT. $10,000

CASE OF B. F. STAHL VERSUS DR. OVERMYER OF LEITERS FORD WILL CONSUME WEEK.

Many Witnesses. Examined in the Suit for Malpractice—Setting of Broken Arm Causes Trouble.

The case of B. F. Stahl, versus Dr. B. F. Overmyer of Leiters Ford, asking for damages amounting to $10,000 charging malpractice will consume the remainder of the week in the Circuit Court. A large number of witnesses are present on each side, and the case is being hotly contested. Three attorneys are arrayed on each side, Atty's, George Holman and Enoch Myers of Rochester assisted by E. C. Martindale of Plymouth for the plaintiff and Attorneys J. S. Bibler and Charles Emmons of Rochester and S. N. Stevens of Plymouth appearing for the defense.

The case arose over the setting of a broken bone for Stahl Dr. Overmyer. Stahl resides three miles south of Leiters Ford. On August 9, 1905, while engaged in threshing at a nearby farm, in attempting to start a threshing engine, Stahl was caught in the fly wheel and thrown, resulting in a broken arm. Dr. Overmyer set the arm. The plaintiff alleges that the setting of the bone was improperly done, and that it was a source of great trouble, until he went to a hospital in Chicago, where the bone was cut off on each end, and reset. The right arm is now about two inches shorter than the other. For this long siege of disability, and subsequent deformity, Stahl asks $10,000 damages. On the other hand the defense maintains that the setting of the bone was proper, and that it was not properly cared for afterward. Among the witnesses who are attending the trial are Dr. and Mrs. Overmyer, Mr. and Mrs. John Ginter, Geo. Guyce, J. B. Campbell, H. E. Perry, John Barger, Henry Shadel, Geo. Ginter, Frank Langford, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ginter, George Miller, Philip Lewis, Wm. Fernbaugh, Wm. Cook, A. K. Richard, Henry Wolf, Jesse E. and Joseph Ball, all of Leiters Ford, and vicinity.

Indian Was Fakir.

"Cherokee Baird" the Indian doctor of Culver, charged with practicing medicine without a license has pleaded guilty and was given a fine of $25.00 and costs by Judge Bernetha.

NOTICE.

To the Citizens and Tax-Payers of the City of Plymouth, Indiana. You are hereby notified that the furnaces and heating plant in the Washington School Buildings are old and worn out to such an extent that your Board believes an emergency now exists requiring that they be replaced with some new heating and ventilating plant and that said building cannot be safely and properly heated and ventilated with the old ones, and they have not the money on hand to pay for the same, and they, therefore, propose to bond said school city for the sum of $10,000 and with the money secured from the sale of said bonds it is their purpose to pay for the new heating system, which in their judgment should be placed in said buildings.

WHY SALVES FAIL TO CURE ECZEMA

Scientists are now agreed that the eczema germs are lodged not in the outer skin or epidermis, but in the inner skin. Hence, a penetrating liquid is required, not an outward salve that clog the pores. We recommend to all eczema patients the standard prescription Oil of Wintergreen as compounded in liquid form known as D. D. D. Prescription. A trial bottle of this D. D. D. Prescription, at only 25 cents will instantly relieve the itch. We have sold and recommended this remedy for years and know of wonderful cures from its use. We recommend it to our patrons.
